Waiting until the absolute last minute to make plans for Labor Day Weekend isn't exactly ideal, but it's also not the end of the world. Many of the country's most popular holiday destinations still have hotel rooms, event tickets, and restaurant reservations available—here are a few we recommend.

WATCH HILL, RHODE ISLAND

Hate the Hamptons? Head to southwest Rhode Island instead. The unpretentious coastal village is home to gorgeous beaches, charming restaurants, and a slew of great hotels. While you're in town, be sure to check out the Ocean House's Secret Champagne Garden before it closes for the season on October 9.
