YOUR FALL FAMILY BUCKET LIST OF DESTINATIONS

When the leaves start changing, and the days are no longer scorching, it's time for a family getaway. Somewhere beautiful where it's outdoorsy enough to find activities for even the most reluctant nature-lovers, and luxury enough for the whole family to be comfortable after a full day's worth of soaking in the fall. We've outlined just the places.

Watch Hill, Rhode Island

Stay at: Ocean House

Watch Hill is an idyllic vacation spot that's less crowded than the Hamptons, and easier to reach than Nantucket – but, without compromising any of the classic perks. From hikes through Napatree Point (which is also a wildlife preserve, and a resting area for migratory birds), to riding the Flying Horse Carousel, the oldest working carousel in the country, this historic destination has a laundry list of activities for the whole family. And, the Ocean House sprawling estate not only captures the beauty of the region, but is also equipped with endless amenities, a private beach, and a Center of Wine and Culinary Arts where you can snag a class or two while your children are occupied.

Lexington, Massachusetts

Stay at: The Inn at Hastings Park

Located about 15 miles outside of Boston, this boutique hotel is a stone's throw away from the best of historic New England towns – Lexington, Concord, Cambridge, the Boston area communities, and everything in between. For even the most reluctant US history buffs, Lexington is a must-see destination regardless of the season– but in the fall, it's all especially beautiful. Guests are able to visit Walden Pond, where author Henry David Thoreau once lived, take a trolley tour of historical sites in the area (such as taverns and battlefields), and visit every museum and landmark remotely related to the Lexington Battle Green, which is also known as the beginning of the American Revolutionary War (the first shots were fired just steps away from The Inn). The Inn itself is modern, luxury, and very family-friendly.
